St. Louis Robin Is Continuing Flight

Fliers Say Not To Come Down Until Houston Ship Does

Motors Functioning Perfectly As Ship Circles Landing Field.

300 HOURS ALOFT

Give No Intimation When They Expect To Come Down.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—(AP)—Announcing in notes dropped this morning that "everything was fine" and that the motors were "showing no signs of giving in," Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brien piloted their "St. Louis Robin" on into the 13th day of their endurance flight and lazily continued to circle over Lambert St. Louis field.

At 10:17 this morning the fliers completed 291 hours in the air and had exceeded the former record by 44 hours or nearly two days.

Asks About Rivals

O'Brien inquired in a message as to the progress being made by the Houston, Texas, endurance plane, the "Billion Dollar City," now well past its 200th hour aloft and added: "You know we can't come down as long as they are up. They might pass us and that would never do."

'Billion Dollar City' Stays Aloft

Flying Weather But Pilots Say Determined To Stick.

HOUSTON, July 25.—(AP)—Intermittent showers driving in from the Gulf made flying conditions rough for the Houston endurance flight plane but did not affect the determination of the pilots, Joe Glass and Glenn Loomis, to stay up longer than their rivals, the "St. Louis Robin."

At 10:49 this morning the "Billion Dollar City" ended its 188th hour in the air, motors functioning perfectly and fliers reporting they were in fine shape and able to carry on indefinitely.

Snook Trial Making But Slow Headway

COLUMBUS, O., July 25.—(AP)—Austive questioning of prospective jurors was resumed today as attorneys moved slowly toward empaneling the 12 persons who will decide the fate of Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State University professor, for the hammer of Theora Hix, his 25-year-old mistress.

Georgian Burns Murderer

Wife, Injures Son Then Attempts Suicide.

ASTA, Ga., July 25.—(AP)—Burnett, 54, early today killed his 14-year-old son, and then thrust a razor in her throat with a razor after a successful attempt to drown him in a bath tub.

Neighbors said that Burnett had been sleeping and slashed her throat with a razor. The woman attempted to the front porch where she called for help and Burnett, however, beat her over the head with a hammer. She tried to call warning to her son, whereupon he turned and went into the house, meeting the son and seriously wounding him by striking him over the head with a hammer. He locked himself in the bathroom.

When neighbors forced an entrance they found that Burnett had slashed his own throat with the razor he used in assaulting his son. He was removed to a hospital. The son was removed to a hospital.

Find Body In Box Car At Meridian

Believed Man Murdered With Robbery Given As Motive.

MERIDIAN, Miss., July 25.—(AP)—The body of a white man, apparently about 45 years of age and believed by authorities to be that of a prominent physician was found concealed in a freight car early today. The head had been beaten in and the pockets of the man's clothing were turned inside out. The authorities apparently believed the man was murdered for an investigation was immediately begun.

According to Sheriff Stone, two white youths are being held at Citronelle, Ala., in connection with the killing. Stone is on his way to that place today to see if he can identify the youths who are said to have been seen in the vicinity of the railroad yards where the body was found.

The sheriff said he has the opinion the slain man was a physician and advanced the opinion that robbery was the motive for the murder. The dead man was neatly dressed and a handbag and walking cane were found near the body. A small black book in the pocket of his trousers had several addresses in Houston, New York and St. Louis.

Fighting Reported On Eastern Front

Chinese Troops Fire On Soviet Aircraft Over Manchuli.

LONDON, July 25.—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo this afternoon quoted a telegram from Manchuli as saying that Chinese troops fired on five Soviet planes which this morning appeared over the border town. Later firing was heard in the distance but after a time it died down.

The shooting is believed to have been caused by the excitability and nervousness of the Chinese troops. The newspaper Nigshi, in a special from Manchuli said that Russian and Chinese troops had opened fire on each other when 16 Russian planes appeared over the city in battle formation.

Jonesboro Votes Today On Sale of Municipal Plant

Bitter Fight Comes To Climax In Northeast Arkansas.

ELECT COMMISSION

Sale Issue Dominates Race for Power Plant Board.

JONESBORO, July 25.—The fate of Jonesboro's municipally owned light plant hangs in the balance today as local property owners go to the polls to vote for plant commissioners, the candidates having made their campaign for and against a sale.

Today's election climaxes a red-hot battle between the Citizens League, defender of municipal ownership, and the Property Owners' League, which has advocated selling the plant to a private power company.

The Citizens' League is supporting three members of the power commission for re-election, Gordon Matthews, Mayor Herbert Boxler and Will Mack; while the Property Owners' League has placed the following in the field against them: Dr. McAdams, C. E. Robinson and W. S. Montague.

Aroused by the publication of a book by the Property Owners' League, entitled "Plundering the City," the Citizens' League launched a counter-attack through local newspapers, and linked the power election with another fight—a proposal to build a new courthouse. This latter project will be put to a vote August 27, hence the following slogan, which was coined by the Citizens' League:

"Everybody wants our light plant, because it's good; nobody wants our courthouse, because it's no good—let's keep the light plant and get a new courthouse!"

Pacific Coast Hop Men Seek Outlet for Crops

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Hop growers of the Pacific coast are endeavoring to form a cooperative association and curtail, if possible, the crop for economic purposes.

Six hundred acres in California will not be harvested this year in an effort to stabilize the market and a surplus. Oregon, the largest hop growing state in the west with 17,382 acres, has a surplus of 6,177 bales and estimates its 1929 yield at nearly 100,000 bales, averaging 200 pounds each. California has 14,000 bales on hand.

Mrs. J. E. Searcy, 310 South Greening.

One of the Stay-at-Home Dollars launched by The Star yesterday was rolling along nicely, having changed hands four times this morning.

The other ran into a feature event at Geo. W. Robinson & Co. in which purchases were for even its elaborate ring, snipping tag, instructions, etc., was viewed with pronounced suspicion.

Nobody would take it. It was a curiosity to early shoppers—some of them from far out in the Hope trade territory—but was it money? It sure is. Uncle Sam may be making new dollar bills, but he never has found a substitute for the old "cart-wheel."

So much for "Number One."

Over at Patterson's "Number Two" got into action early this morning, passing to Mrs. W. R. Alexander, 803 East Division street, on a purchase of dry goods.

It passed back again to Patterson's in change.

The next customer who got it was Mrs. J. E. Searcy, 310 South Greening street, who bought a pair of shoes and the last seen of "Number Two" it was disappearing toward grocery row with Mrs. Searcy.

Tomorrow's Star will pick up both dollars where we have left off with their travels, at 2 p. m. Thursday.

John D.'s Winter Home Bank Is Bust

Failed To Open Doors and State Department Takes Charge.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., July 25.—(AP)—The Bank of Ormond Beach, the only bank in the winter home of John D. Rockefeller, failed to open its doors this morning.

The banks affairs were in the hands of the state banking department following request by the board to directors that such action be taken.

The pavement on South Elm which has given way in a place or two under the tremendous traffic strain of the past two years to which it has been subjected, is being repaired, a force of men getting on the job yesterday to stay until the work is completed.

The pavement on that street was not designed for heavy traffic but has stood up under traffic conditions calculated to wear out a far more expensive type of surfacing. Logging trucks, brick yard trucks, butcher-knife wagons loaded to the guards—every conceivable type of vehicle has sped over a pavement intended for passenger traffic only.

This condition, however, will be remedied to great extent by completion of the job on South Main and that thoroughfare opened to the public.

"Shag," Latest Dance, Is for the Energetic

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., July 25.—Sun backed bathing suits and beach pajamas is the costume, the sands are the dance floor, and the latest time known to the terpsichorean art, the tempo for "the shag," is the latest test for the energy of summer colonists.

While classified as a dance, the "shag" essentially requires energy rather than grace. It apparently is the embodiment of all the movements of the Highland fling and the late Charleston. Unlike the Charleston, the feet of the dancers are not lifted.

DESPERATE FIGHT

Gasoline Speed Craft Had Grueling Battle To Beat Big Muddy.

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—(AP)—The historic 59-year-old record on the Mississippi made by the once-proud craft of the river, the Robert E. Lee, in its epochal trip up the river from New Orleans to St. Louis which became a tradition to be celebrated in song and story, fell today before a frail gasoline speed boat of modern design.

The Robert E. Lee mark of 90:14 which withstood repeated attempts, was shattered by the "Bogie," owned by Dr. Louis LeRoy, of Memphis, which pulled up at the municipal docks at 6:35 this morning, completing the approximately 1454 miles over the winding river course in 87:31. Dr. LeRoy had made two previous attempts to lower the record but failed and even the "Bogie" could clip less than three hours from the old coal-burners time.

Because of the early hour of its arrival, only a small crowd of rivermen were on hand to acclaim the feat. Dr. LeRoy and his assistants Harvey Brown and Bob Hunter, landed immediately and went to a hotel to rest.

Public Enterprise Is Greatest Gift

Former Hope Pastor Tells of Rise of Corpus Christi, Texas.

A review and criticism of 25 years' growth in the city of Hope, was given the Kiwanis club at its luncheon Thursday in the Barlow hotel by John Sykes, Episcopal pastor of Corpus Christi, Texas, and a pastor in Hope a decade ago.

Dr. Sykes, who made one of the best inspirational addresses of the year, declared that the determination and courage of the individual citizens had more to do with elvise progress than any so called natural resources. He cited cases in both Arkansas and Texas where some cities had been made, and others ruined, by the citizens themselves.

Much of his speech dealt with the history of Hope's first public improvements, the laying of sewer lines, and paving of the streets. He noted with interest that two new districts will greatly extend the paved area this summer and fall.

Dr. Sykes gave an illuminating description of the rise of Corpus Christi from a fishing village to a sizeable city just off the Texas coast. He attributed its rise largely to the public enterprise of its people in demanding and securing public improvements such as paving, parks and buildings.

Chap Welmant, of the business practices committee, addressed the club with a brief review of the figures on business losses throughout the nation. National bankruptcy reports showed, he said, liabilities of 870 million dollars in one year, of which creditors only recovered 70 millions—a net loss of 800 millions.

Of the two principal factors behind this loss, incompetency and fraud—the latter accounted for 500 millions, the report showed, leaving ample room for the preaching of business ethics by the luncheon clubs of America.

The address of Governor Parnell was centered largely on a discussion of the Hall income tax law and what it would mean to the furtherance of educational advances in the state.

Tries Blackmail; Winds Up In Jail

Grant County Man Accused of Trying to Extort Cash.

LITTLE ROCK, July 25.—(AP)—Omage Treadway, 25, of Leola, in Grant county, was held in the county jail here today awaiting action of the grand jury on a charge of blackmail resulting from an alleged attempt to extort money from a resident of Hensley on his wife's statement that she had been attacked by the Hensley man.

Treadway's wife is said by officers to have admitted that she was forced by her husband to make the charge and that there was no truth to it.

When arraigned before Justice of the Peace Butts, of Perkins township, Treadway's bonds were fixed at a total of $15,000, $5,000 for blackmail, $5,000 for making threats and $5,000 for a peace bond.

Committee Gets Off On Bad Location for Maids

Sometimes one gets off on a tangent or takes the wrong road but it is seldom one moves an extremely attractive pair of girls from one township to another without the young ladies themselves being the wiser.

That, however, is just exactly what happened in the early stages of the present contest for Maids of the Melon Festival, the error being discovered yesterday and correction made today. Misses Mary Jarrell and Cora Newberry both of DeRoan township, were in some way listed as candidates for Spring Hill township. Both young ladies are in DeRoan, however, and in the report of Maids standing tomorrow will appear in that township candidacies.

Given Industrial School and State Prison Sentence

Testimony Closed When Attorneys Announced Change of Plans.

PENALTY IS FIXED

Boy Given Five Years In Industrial School and Ten In Pen.

PIGGOTT Ark., July 25.—(AP)—A plea of guilty to a second degree murder charge was entered for George Parker, 15, at his trial on a first degree murder charge for the killing of his father was nearing its close in circuit court here today and the youth was given five years in the state industrial school and ten years in the state penitentiary. He received the sentence without apparent show of emotion.

State's attorneys had agreed to permit the boy to enter a guilty plea to a second degree charge. Both state and defense had rested their cases last night when court adjourned and the case was to have gone to the jury after argument of counsel this morning.

Upon convening of court, however, attorneys for the boy announced they wished to withdraw their plea of not guilty and enter a plea of guilty whereupon Judge W. W. Bandy discharged the jury and passed sentence.

Youth Confessed
The youth had confessed to the shooting of his father, Whit Parker, 50, and setting fire to the log house in which they lived near here July 3. He told officers that he shot his father with whom he lived, to death and then poured kerosene over the body and house and touched a fire to it. Neighbors found the charred body in the ruins of the house and the boy was later arrested in Piggott.

The youth will start serving the penitentiary sentence as soon as the industrial school sentence expires. The defense did not offer any testimony at the trial and the state's evidence was largely limited to the boy's confession.

The Stay-at-Home Dollar

THE Star launched a "stunt" yesterday that is apt to attract considerable attention before it is through. Two silver dollars were fitted into clasps, identified with shipping tags as "Stay-at-Home Dollars," put into circulation at local stores. Every time either dollar changes hands it will be recorded by the newspaper. At the end of a week we will have an indelible record of the movement of currency in Hope.

It is more than a publicity scheme. Nations watch the movement of gold—international currency—with anxious eyes. When gold is moving out of a nation they say that nation is poor. But when gold is moving into it, times are more prosperous. That is not always true, but everybody remembers how America cornered the gold and credit of the world during the war, and how we were feared by other nations simply because money was moving away from them and toward us.

Hope wants to keep its money at home. The stay-at-home dollar is a real dollar, particularly in the South. One of the best speeches we ever heard was an address by Vernon L. Thompson, Little Rock life insurance man, in Hope last spring when he told how the South was impoverished by the Civil war. The trouble, Mr. Thompson said, was that the South lost its creditor status and became indebted to the North for most of its manufactured goods. We bought in the North more than we sold in the North.

The truth was that the South lost its stay-at-home dollars.

Every city has to watch this. The city that doesn't go out into its trade territory and get the business that belongs to it, is on the downgrade. The city that doesn't know whether it is getting that business or not, is in danger of going on the downgrade.

The circulation of money in a city is the pulse of business. Hope is on the upgrade this year. We want it to continue that way. But a couple of test dollars will show us things we didn't know.

A "Good" Murder?

THIS modern age has led to confusion in all kinds of fields; but nothing is much more illuminating concerning that confusion than the plea that a lawyer made for a killer in the New York courts recently.

The defendant was charged with killing a rather notorious gunman. His counsel argued that by killing this gunman the defendant had actually rendered the city a service, and hence should not be punished. Whether this influenced the jury or not we don't know; but at any rate the jurors brought in the minor verdict of manslaughter, instead of the first degree verdict the prosecutor asked.

Here, with a vengeance, is a new "unwritten law" for us. True enough, the killing of the gunman was a service. But after all, that sort of work is reserved to the state. If we are to start classing murders as meritorious and otherwise we shall presently have a fine legal jumble.

The Real Trouble

IT is encouraging to read that the state of Kentucky has changed its mind about sending to prison for 20 years the six-year-old boy who shot a playmate in a fit of anger.

To be sure, the lad was found guilty and sentenced. But Kentucky thought it over, and came to the sensible conclusion that no earthly good would be done by such savagery. So the child is to get another chance, and modern America is spared a distressing spectacle.

The whole notion of imprisonment for the little boy was preposterous from the start. Our own hunch is that the state's chief duty, when a child of six takes a life, is to examine that child's home and parents. It is impossible not to suspect that something is lacking there.

Not Forgotten

The annual Watermelon Festival is scheduled for next month over in Hope, Arkansas, and if Ed McCorkle sends this column another 124-parker this year we intend to notify Ashley Evans of the Bonham Favorite, Homer Price of the Marshall News and Ernest Parker of the Sherman Democrat just as soon as we get on the outside of said melon.—Sam Fryar in Clarksville, Texas, Times.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The government has decided not to go into the business of broadcasting prohibition propaganda in the schools, but that will be no great loss. There will still be plenty of propaganda available and it will continue to be handled by experts.

The dry organizations are pushing it out today with all the volume and fervor of the pre-Volstead era, although they are now directing their efforts for law enforcement and against the bootleggers rather than on behalf of a proposed new law. Most of the present day propaganda comes from the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

The doses are large and potent and may be ordered either in portrait or pamphlet form. Just of late your correspondent has been studying a collection of cartoons from the Methodist Board, some of which have tigers and dragons in them. They are available for school teachers, Sunday or secular, and editors may obtain mats of them, free ready for publication. You Can Get Anything.

Here is a brief prospectus of these posters or cartoons which will show how vigorous the dry organizations continue to be their ceaseless warfare, outlined by titles:

"SHALL WE UNLEASH THE TIGER?" Shows man and woman beneath drooling mouth of huge, Traffic. The tiger is restrained by a leash labeled "Prohibition," upon which a butcher knife is descending to free it. The man, who bears a marked but unintentionable resemblance to Al Smith, is wearing white flannels. Both he and the lady appear agitated.

Significant bones lie about on the ground. The tiger's tail curls high in the air.

"CROSS ROADS." Sign post shows that one road leads to "Corruption and Dishonor" and the other to "Prosperity and Honor." Farmer stands beneath sign, holding rein on a pig and a horse. Pig is labeled "Wrong Appointments" and is headed toward "Corruption and Dishonor." Horse is labeled "Right appointments" and is headed on the other road. Pig is hitched to farmer by a chain tied to his left leg.

"THE MEN IN THE BACK GROUND." In the foreground lies "Constitution of the United States," "Privileged Wealth," a gent in silk topper and spats, is trampling on it. "Foolish Youth," another good looking boy in white flannels, is about to join in the background, wearing flowing robes, are Lincoln, Washington and Lee. Lee appears to disapprove.

"A CONTRAST IN CRIME." On one side stands a little girl at department store counter, apparently about to steal some pure silk hosiery, with a man in a frock coat approaching as if about to arrest her. On the other side sits a tough-looking gent in a swivel chair, lighting a cigar. He wears a striped collar and double-breasted vest and is surrounded by money bags. A bottle of what appears to be hooch rest on his desk. "THE FLAG OR THE BOTTLE." With a question mark poised over his head, a young man stands between Old Glory and a bottle of "Special XXX Rye." He is gazing toward the bottle and ignoring the flag.

25 YEARS AGO

Last Saturday, in conversation with W. M. Cornelius of this city, Mr. James Buchanan of the L. & A. said that an agreement had been consummated whereby the Iron Mountain, the L. & A. and the Frisco would build a $20,000 union depot in Hope at once. Col. Knoble, who is in town today, confirms the report, and the work of construction is expected to begin at an early date. The site of the Union depot will probably be where the Barlow Hotel formerly stood.

There will be a picnic and basket dinner at Patmos Saturday, July 30th, to which everybody is invited. Among other speakers Hon. Minor Wallace, congressman from this district, is expected to address the people. The affair, as we understand it, will be under the immediate supervision of the W. W. camp of that place, but the entire community is interested, and is invited to participate.

Dr. Sam Carrigan, who has been attending a special course of lectures in Chicago, returned to Hope Tuesday and opened his office in the Kaplan building. He has for many years been a successful physician, is a splendid man, and we welcome him to Hope.

Mrs. T. Y. Williams of Washington was in Hope Wednesday.

Jim Couch, who lived in Hope years ago, but has been recently living at Rouston, La., was in town Wednesday. He has been out in Mexico and in Indian Territory, on a prospecting trip, having sold his business in Louisiana. It would not be a bad guess to settle down in Hope, Jim.

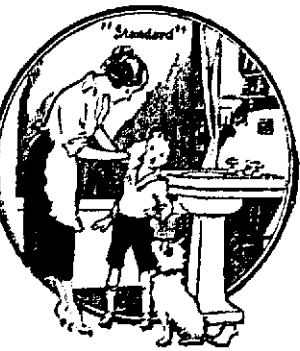

Hon. J. J. McCollum, in response to an invitation of the people of that neighborhood, went to DeAnn Thursday to make a speech, but the rain spoiled the picnic and the speech was called off for another occasion.

Why Be Without It?

WITHOUT running water, you may live in a 'house'—but it can't be a home. It means no bathroom, no flush toilet, no kitchen sink and lots of unnecessary work.

In the home without running water, Mother is a weary slave, carrying nearly thirty tons of water a year—and needlessly wearing out her precious life.

A water system in your home means running water everywhere—all the home comforts, and Mother fresh for her daily tasks.

We have a water-pumping system we'd like to have you see. Come in and let us explain it to you—bring Mother.

All Highways Open for Festival Date

Highway Engineer Assures Committee Roads Will Be Open.

Major R. B. Stanford, district highway engineer at Hope, Wednesday gave assurance to the committee in charge of the Festival that all highways leading into this city would be open for traffic on the date of the Festival. Because of new construction work and in some instances extensive repairs on highways, fear was felt that persons coming into the city would be bothered by detours. This fear was allayed, however, by a statement from Major Stanford in which he stated he knew the importance of open highways on that date and that the commission would see to it that traffic was unhampered. And this, in the minds of the committee and citizens generally, is another distinct service rendered to this city by the highway commission and Mr. Stanford.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 BY NEA Service Inc

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Molly Burnham and Red Flynn have decided to collaborate on a crime play. The plot is to be taken from real life, and will revolve about the mysterious death of a woman named Bernice Bradford. Bernice was married to a man named Lionel Barrows, the lover who stood trial for her murder, subsequently acquitted.

Later Red Flynn, a police court reporter, meets a boy named Percy Ingersoll, who gets intoxicated and admits that he was also a sweetheart of the dead woman. He tells Red the story of their friendship, and Red immediately sees its possibilities as a mystery play—a play centering about the unsolved murder of the Bradford woman. Red visits Molly, who covered the trial, and tells her the amazing story unfolded by young Ingersoll.

They determine to get to work as playwrights immediately. But Molly is suddenly assigned to cover another murder trial—the trial of a gunman, charged with the killing of a night watchman.

Now Molly is not at all in love with Red Flynn, but engaged, instead, to a young draftsman named Jack Wells who has insisted upon postponing their marriage until such time as he can save a little money.

Mr. Wharton, the city editor, warns her that covering the Man-dinello trial will be dangerous business, as the Chicago gunman are watching developments with deadly interest.

Molly goes to New York and reads Jack the synopsis of a play. Molly is very happy and excited, and confidently expects to be a successful playwright. But Jack is jealous and old-fashioned. He protests that he does not like to have her write filth and muck.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIV

The week-end in New York constituted two days of wretchedness. Molly had expected praise and encouragement from Jack. And she received instead disparagement and censure. He disapproved strongly of her work. He was jealously resentful of Red Flynn, and hated, he admitted, the ways of all newspaper men.

"Why don't you write something worth while, Molly?" he pleaded.

"What would you suggest?" she had inquired, frigidly polite.

"But Jack was vague. 'Oh, something nice,' he floundered. 'You used to write sweet little verses, and I bet you could write pretty stories for children. Then there are all the high class magazines. My gosh, Molly, you don't have to write for such a screaming newspaper!'"

"But I want to earn money, Jack," she had defended herself. "Poetry doesn't pay anything. Besides, I'm no poet. As for children's magazines—" she fluttered her white little hands despairingly.

"I tell you, dear, a steady job on a newspaper is best. It assures an income, you see, and doesn't prohibit me from taking a fling at your high class magazines. Or even trying my hand at a play."

Jack groaned. "That play again! Of all the sordid, rotten themes, you picked the darndest. If you want to write a play, why don't you write about something decent?"

"It doesn't pay," she informed him tartly.

"How about Peter Pan?"

"But that was ages ago, dear. Eugene O'Neill doesn't write fairy tales, nor Charlie McArthur and Ben Hecht. Take the outstanding successes. Crime plays, or sex plays, all of them."

"So that's what you want to do?" he demanded disagreeably. "Write crime and sex?"

"I want to make money," she told him wearily, "to buy all the lovely things I dream about, and go to all the lovely places I've read about."

"But it isn't only money that I want. I want to be somebody. Not just little Molly Burnham who married that nice young man, Jack Wells."

"Don't let me cramp your style," he injected bitterly.

And so they quarreled and bickered and Jack never guessed that, womanlike, Molly would have sworn all her dreams of wealth and fame for a man who could dominate her. So he criticized and found fault, and adopted quite the wrong tactics until Molly was glad when it was time to leave.

"It hasn't been a very nice week-end," she confessed penitently at parting, "and I feel as though it was pretty much my fault. I guess I'm awfully selfish. I love you with all my heart, Jack. But getting married, to cook pot, roasts and darn socks, and budget on $45 a week, doesn't sound half so romantic as it used to. I've had my taste of independence, and found it sweet. Do you hate me, darling, for being modern and hard-boiled, and all the horrid things you abominate?"

"Hate you!" he cried. "Oh Molly dear, if I were only good enough for you, and clever, and rich!"

She put her fingers to his lips. "Sh! Honey, we're both going to knock 'em dead!"

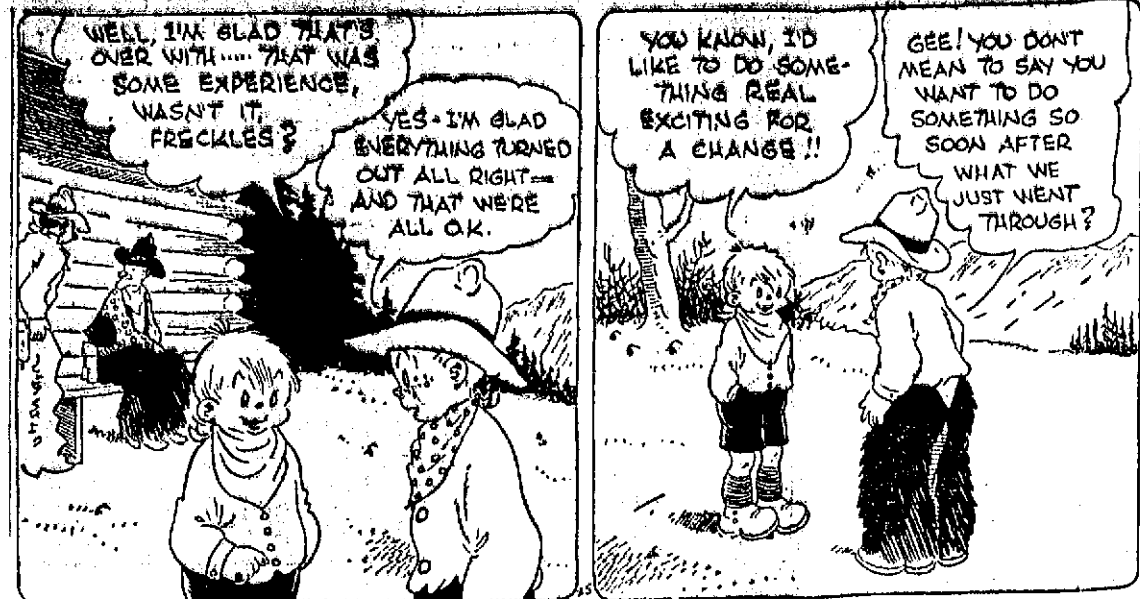

In the morning Molly went directly from the train to the courthouse. As she approached the building she was conscious of a curious atmosphere of suppressed excitement. Plainclothes men lounged on the courthouse steps, while others, in uniform, kept curious pedestrians moving. In the corridor she met Slim Boynton.

"There's hell to pay," he told her grimly. "And if you don't get jailed for contempt of court, you're luckier than you deserve. One of the jurymen got hold of a story you wrote. Of course they're not supposed to look at the newspapers, but this bird did. And now he admits that he's all set to find Mandinello guilty. Attorneys for the defense have petitioned for a mistrial, and the judge is considering the evidence now. You'll probably be called to his chambers any minute. It's Wharton's fault. And now the whole outfit's liable to go to jail."

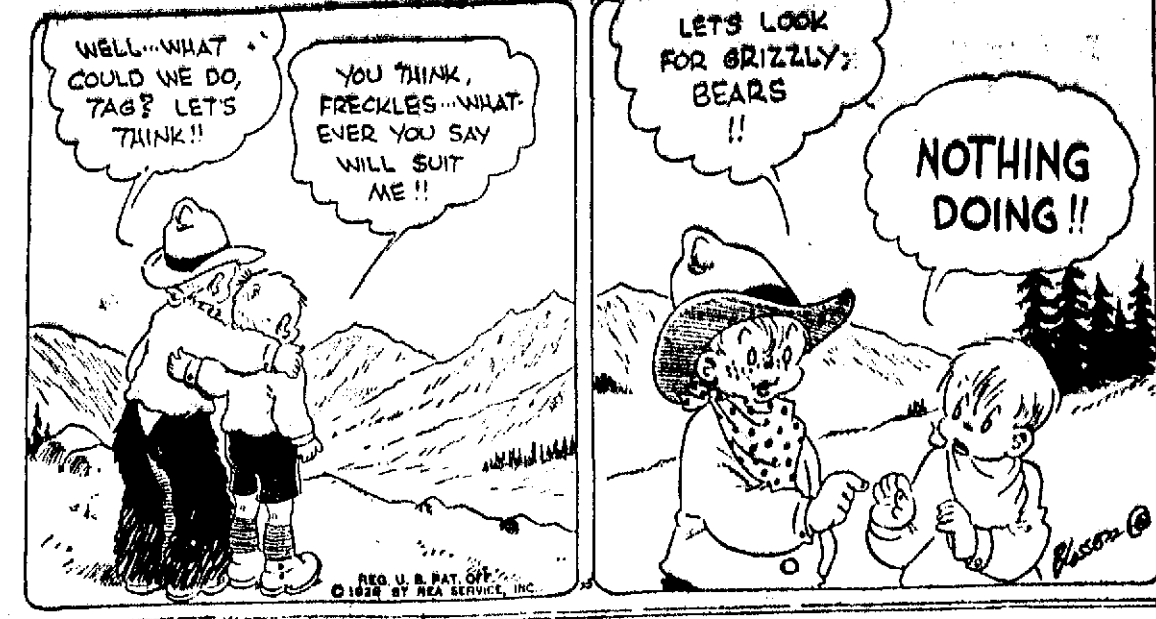

"Slim! You don't mean it?" Molly experienced a dreadful sinking feeling, and her knees became suddenly weak.

"Sure I mean it. What do you think I am, a practical little joker? Ask any of the boys. Look in the courtroom there. It's empty, isn't it? Wharton's been phoning all morning. Wants you to call him. They may take a chance, and send you up to Canada, until the thing blows over."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Freckles Wants a Rest!

Molly was genuinely frightened. She had visions of going to jail, and wearing a striped dress like a woman she had interviewed in the house of correction.

A court officer approached her kindly.

"Judge Brewster wishes to see you, Miss Burnham."

"Oh, my lord, Slim! What will I do?"

"Well, you can't very well run, observed Slim. 'Go ahead and take your medicine.'"

"Judge Brewster, formidable in his black robes, received her gently, explaining the situation with legal preciseness. He would be obliged, he said, to declare a mistrial. The fault was not so much hers, as the jurymen's. He had warned the jury not to read the papers. There had been, it would appear, a serious misdemeanor. A friend of the accused man had sent a newspaper containing a story of Molly's to this particular jurymen. Certain passages of the story had been penciled.

"An unprejudiced person reading that article would undoubtedly be influenced against the defendant," declared the judge. "As a newspaper woman you have no right to be anything but impartial in what you write. It is a serious offense, and frequently merits a fine, or a jail sentence. In view, however, of the evident conspiracy among Mandinello's friends, I am inclined to deal leniently with your own offense."

"Whoever it was who sent the paper containing your story to juryman Flagger, communicated the fact to attorneys for the defense. They promptly demanded an investigation, and I have questioned Mr. Flagger. He admits having read the article, and declares that he is now predisposed to find the defendant guilty. In view of his sworn statement, I must call a mistrial."

The judge stopped speaking, and Molly raised her flushed face to meet his judicial gaze, fixed sternly upon her.

"I'm fearfully sorry," she stammered. "There isn't anything I can say. I've no defense, no excuse."

He regarded her more kindly. "Allow me to commend your civility, Miss Burnham. It transcends your indiscretion. It is uncommonly gallant when a person brought to accounting declines to transfer the responsibility for the offense. I have investigated the matter more deeply than I had indicated, and have learned that your city editor ordered the articles."

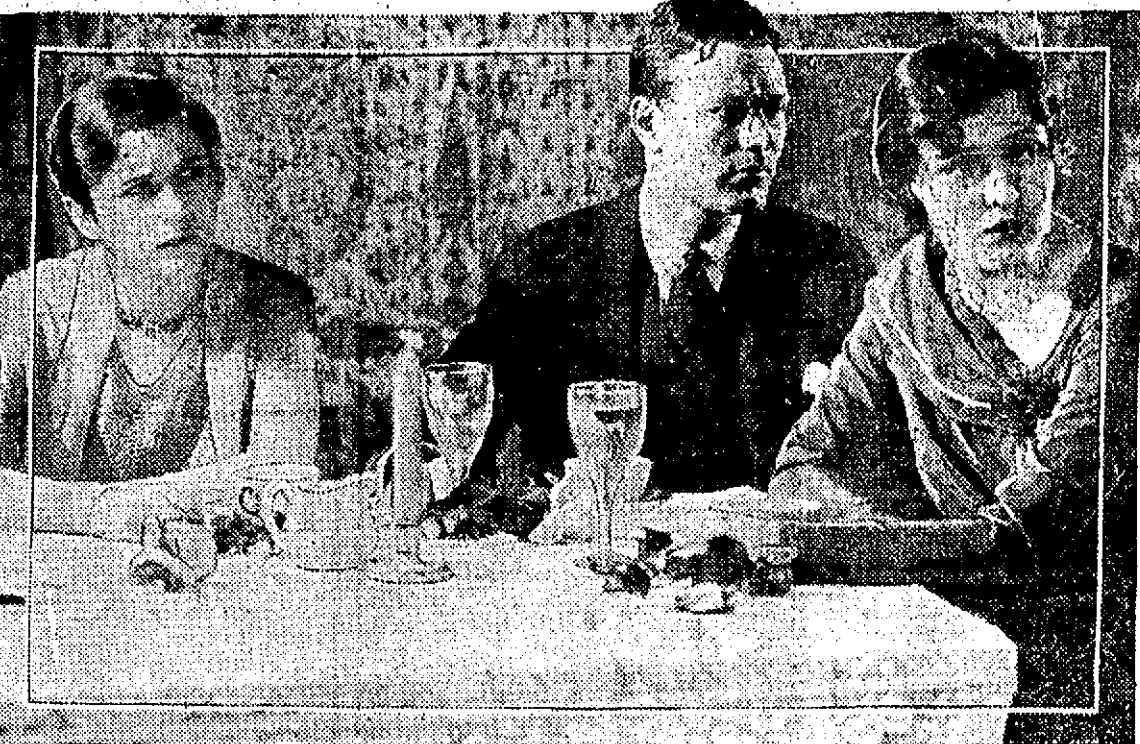

Molly shook her head. "I write my own stories," she insisted. "Mr. Wharton is not responsible."

Judge Brewster rose, and his black robes billowed solemnly about him.

"That is all," he said. "Except that I should advise you, Miss Burnham, for your own good, to be more careful in the future. Gunmen execute fearful reprisals."

Slim was waiting when Molly left the judge's chambers.

"It's all right," she said. "I'm not going to jail."

They were sitting over their coffee when the bell rang. The finger that pressed the button held it maddeningly.

That Stuff

men of Chicago have the title of their Cubs at heart, a story that came out after the battle in the park between Hack Wilson and Ray Kolp.

be recalled that Wilson, Chicago outfielder, left first rushed into the Cincinnati out and slammed Kolp, Cincinnati pitcher and the key of the club.

The Cincinnati players on the bench milled around the two players and the Chicago players thought they were gangling Wilson and started across the field.

Here Comes the Mob

At this moment a group of young well dressed and all that, sauntered down to the railing of the stand near the Cincinnati dugout and yelled at the Cubs:

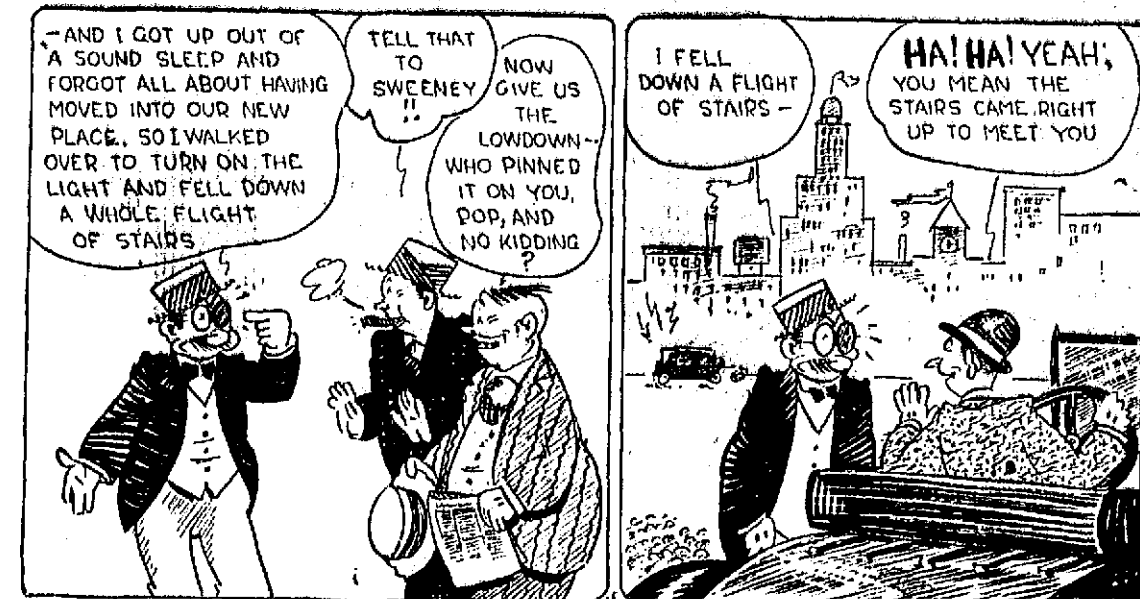

"Get back over there. If you want them handled we'll handle 'em for you."

And that is said to be the reason that prompted the Cincinnati officials to complain to the league president. They were afraid of cannons the next time they visit Chicago.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Johnny Evers played through a ten-inning game for the Braves at second base. In an exhibition game in Portland, Me.—Donie Bush, mgr. of the Pirates, says the rabbit ball will kill some player before the season is over—Charley Chaplin and Mayor Walker of N'Yawk are said to be the toughest guys in the country to sit next to at a fight—They go through all the motions themselves—Mickey Cochran, the wow catcher of the A's, doesn't like to be called Mike—Which his family and the A's call him—Bobby Jones also would prefer to be called Bob—The Boston players say that Judge Fuchs is still the real manager of the team—And he is learning more about baseball every day.

that's all there was to it. And the Babe was said to be a fighter.

Big Frank Good, Too

At the same time the best fighter in the National League was said to have been Frank Snyder, the big catcher of the New York Giants. Snyder also was a quiet fellow. They say he averaged about ten words a day, even to his room mate.

We don't know much about the scrapping ability of the players in the majors today. But Bob Meusel of the Yankees and Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates are said to be two very dangerous men to get in a corner.

Watson Looks To Be Capable Boxer

His Bout With Steele At Rink Tonight Should Be Feature.

"Dub" Watson, Seminole, Okla., boxer who meets Smackover Jack Steele in the main event at the Rink here tonight, came in Wednesday morning and went through a light workout yesterday afternoon.

Watson stacks up like a pretty tough proposition and chances are that Mr. Steele will have a busy evening, that's not saying by any means that Watson will be idle, either. Watson has a win to his credit over both Carter and Red Williams. Steele has too, for that matter, which on paper stack them up as about even.

They have never met, the yarn goes, but each has had a hanker- ing to try the other out for some time and tonight that desire will be gratified.

But while talking fight, you can't afford to forget that this Johnny Hall, Little Rock, who is somewhat of a class, is hooked up to go with Siki, black from over in the oil belt who, El Dorado fans say, is clever and capable. With these two bouts it looks like a large evening.
